Informative, Educational & Entertaining

Lisa Hand of Wind Horse Antiques is a 4th generation antique dealer, who enjoys sharing her passion and knowledge of the beautiful antiques and vintage treasures of each era. She pursues this through story telling, preservation, sales and historical events, which honor the past, connect it to the present and make it relevant to the future. In addition to her scheduled events, Lisa is also available for private talks, workshops and teas for your group or organization & at Back Porch Vintage in Aurora.

Presentations can be customized to fit your audience size and interest.

Some of the topics she can speak on include:

Silk Art Embroidery: A Woman's History of Ornament & Empowerment

The story of silk art embroidery begins in the late 1870s, with Candace Wheeler—an American woman largely unknown today. But her impact ranges from starting the profession of interior design to being the reason Tiffany decorative arts came into being to founding the Society for Decorative Arts. The fascinating story along with items from Lisa's personal collection - many of which are in the accompanying reference book - will be on display.

Attendees are welcome to bring favorite pieces for identification.

Bits & Baubles: Costume Jewelry

A guided trip through antique and vintage costume jewelry. Stories, values (which can be surprising sometimes) and details of care for pieces will be covered along with fun and fascinating history.

Attendees are welcome to bring favorite pieces for identification.

Hankie Pankie

An interesting and often entertaining look at the history of handkerchiefs, with Lisa's personal collection on display.

Attendees are welcome to bring favorite pieces for identification.

Treasure Hunt: The Stories & Connections of Treasures Found, Gifted & Kept

The Silver Service: All about silver, care, uses & fun facts

Want to immerse yourself in the experience?

Wind Horse Historical Teas & Events

Combining unique venues, carefully curated vendors, period specific educational demonstrations, entertainment, special extras and of course, historical themed teas to create the perfect blend of fun, costuming and shopping!

The series spans the years from Georgian to Victorian, Edwardian & the dawn of the Roaring 20s! Attend one of the scheduled events or host your own!

All are welcome! Costumes always admired, but not required. Tickets for all events available online at <https://www.tickettailor.com/events/windhorseantiques>

A sampling of other talk topics include:

Stories My Mother Shared: A Journey of Life, Love & the Joy of Meaningful Things.

Victorian & Edwardian Language of the Flowers

Memento Mori & Mourning Traditions

Afternoon Tea & Victorian Pretties

Victorians & the Furry Friends Pets in the Age of Victoria

What is it & what can it be used for now?

Sewing Notions & the Elegance of Practical Things

Teddy Bear Tea - Children's Etiquette Cream Tea

WORKSHOPS

There are also several talks/workshops available

Queens Q Workshop w/ Tea: Because Every Woman is Queen of her Own Life

Tussie Musses: Design & hidden meanings in the Language of Flowers

Victorian Scrapbooking

Any of the talks can be coordinated to include a themed tea, workshop or coordinated with your scheduled group event.

Wind Horse Antiques is also happy to work with non-profit organizations to create unique teas, talks or fund raisers.

Personal Assistance

Lisa is also available to help with your personal journey, whether it is starting your new home, downsizing or documenting your treasures for the future.

Patreon

New for 2021, join us on Patreon to access exclusive content, events, delightful live sessions, access previous ones and much more!

Appraisal & Much More!

Capturing information on personal items, collections and unique pieces can be important for family records as well as estate and insurance purposes.

In addition to a stand along appraisal, Lisa can serve as your guide and chronicler, walking you through the process of identification, valuation and provenance.

Assisting with the journey to find your voice and focus of collections, how to document, share and preserve them for the future and most importantly creative ways to form connections and relevance today.

The Stories Your Treasures Tell

Identifying and recording the narratives of family treasures is critical if the histories and provenance of them are to be captured and communicated to future generations.

Additionally, identifying those things that truly speak to your heart and explaining them to your loved ones provides connections, explains the wonderful memories and presents the opportunity to create new memories.

Seeking and Finding

Wanting to fill gaps in your collection? Lisa is especially skilled at research and finding special items for clients. Complete a "Treasure Hunt Worksheet" and let the Lisa utilize her network of resources to find what you seek.

Valuations, Conservation & Cataloging for Non-Profits

Lisa has a deep personal & family history working with historical societies, historic homes and other heritage organizations. She is always delighted to assist staff and collections committees as they strive to manage organizational artifacts and collections. Lisa can provide technical assistance, research, and/or appraisal at affordable rates.
